

Advancing meaningful participation of Indigenous Peoples and local communities in the UNFCCC Process:
A Virtual Training Workshop (Module 4) back-to-back with the Informal Contributors' Briefing

Session 1: Date: 14 May 2024; 18:00 -20:00 CEST

Session 2: Date: 16 May 2024; 9:00-11:00 CEST

Virtual (Zoom)

Background

Indigenous Peoples and local communities have distinct values, knowledge systems, worldviews, and traditional practices that can contribute to climate change mitigation, adaptation, and resilience. The Parties to the UNFCCC and the Paris Agreement have emphasized the important role of Indigenous Peoples' and local communities' culture and knowledge in effective action on climate change and urges Parties to actively involve them in designing and implementing climate action¹ while considering their respective obligations on human rights, the right to health, the rights of Indigenous Peoples, local communities, migrants, children, persons with disabilities and people in vulnerable situations and the right to development, as well as gender equality, empowerment of women and intergenerational equity. At the same time, Indigenous Peoples and local communities also face disproportionate impacts of climate change due to their direct dependence on ecosystems to meet basic needs²). Drawing on diverse knowledges and cultural values, meaningful participation and inclusive engagement processes—including Indigenous Knowledge, local knowledge, and scientific knowledge also facilitates climate resilient development, builds capacity and allows locally appropriate and socially acceptable solutions³. Despite their crucial role, a significant wide gap remains related to the participation and contributions of Indigenous Peoples and local communities in the international climate policymaking processes. Therefore, it is important to raise awareness and build capacity among Indigenous Peoples and local communities, especially youth and women, about the UNFCCC process, the Local Communities and Indigenous Peoples Platform (LCIPP), the implementation of the Paris Agreement, and opportunities for their leadership to help transform climate policymaking processes at all levels.

Objectives

- Raise awareness and understanding among Indigenous Peoples and local communities about climate finance in the UNFCCC process, including negotiations in 2024 on the new collective quantified goal, article 2.1c (aligning financial flows with the goals of the Paris Agreement), and guidance to the financial mechanism (Green Climate Fund and Global Environment Facility)
- Strengthen capacity of Indigenous Peoples and local communities to actively engage in climate policymaking processes at national and international levels
- Facilitate informed participation in the 11th meeting of the FWG and SB 60

¹ Per decisions 1/CP.26 and 1/CMA.3

Approach

The informal virtual contributors briefing, and training workshop will use interactive and participatory methods to engage Indigenous Peoples and local communities. The workshop will include presentations, interactive activities, and open dialogues.

Content

The informal contributors briefing and training workshop will be 120 minutes long and will cover the following topics in three main segments with Q&A sessions:

- Segment 1: Overview of the key components of climate finance
- Segment 2: Opportunities to engage at SB 60
- Segment 3: FWG 11 and LCIPP Mandated Event at SB 60

Target Audience

The training workshop is aimed at Indigenous Peoples and local communities, with particular focus on Indigenous youth, women, and youth from local communities.

Languages: Interpretation to be confirmed

Expected Outcomes

- Increased understanding of the UNFCCC process, including negotiation and non-negotiation spaces
- Increased awareness on how Indigenous youth, women, and local communities can meaningfully engage in climate policymaking and decision-making processes at the international level
- Enhanced understanding of how Indigenous Peoples and local community representatives can engage in FWG 11 and LCIPP-mandated events at SB 60

Annex I: Mandate

The Conference of the Parties to the UNFCCC welcomed the second three-year workplan of the LCIPP at its 26th session, through decision 16/CP.26. The second three-year workplan of the LCIPP calls for the organization of training workshops, prioritizing participation of indigenous peoples and local communities, including youth, on the UNFCCC process, the LCIPP, ways to support implementation of the Paris Agreement and opportunities for the involvement of indigenous peoples and local communities.
